Members' Business motions that have not achieved cross party support

S5M-13020 Alexander Stewart: Precision Medicine—That the Parliament welcomes the rapid development of precision medicine, which is a medical model that proposes the customisation of healthcare, with medical decisions, treatments, practices or products being genetically tailored to the individual patient; acknowledges that, with this model, diagnostic testing is often employed for selecting appropriate and optimal therapies based on the context of a patient's genetic content or other molecular or cellular analysis; notes that tools employed in precision medicine can include molecular diagnostics, imaging and analytics; further notes that this does not mean that the creation of drugs or medical devices are unique to a patient but rather the ability to classify individuals into subpopulations, which differ in their susceptibility to a particular disease, or in the biology or prognosis of diseases that they may develop such as cancer, or in their response to a specific treatment; acknowledges that preventive or therapeutic interventions may then be concentrated on those who will potentially benefit, thus sparing expense and side effects for those who will not; considers that, on the treatment side, precision medicine can involve the use of customised medical products such as drug mixes produced by pharmacy compounding or customised devices; is aware that this technique can prevent harmful drug interactions, increase overall efficiency when prescribing medications and reduce costs associated with healthcare; understands that artificial intelligence (AI) provides an example of the shift toward precision medicine, with machine-learning algorithms being used for genomic sequences and for analysing and drawing inferences from the vast amounts of data that patients and healthcare institutions have recorded; is encouraged by AI techniques already being used with success in precision cardiovascular medicine to understand genotypes and phenotypes in existing diseases, and is enthused by what it considers the enormous potential of precision medicine in all disciplines to vastly improve the quality of healthcare for patients in the Mid Scotland and Fife region and across Scotland, and to enable cost-effectiveness and a reduction in patient readmission and mortality rates.

S5M-13013 Alison Johnstone: Under-representation of Women's Sports in Media—That the Parliament notes with concern the findings of Dr Deirdre O'Neill's report, This sporting life: Why so few women sports writers? What can be done?, which highlights that there has been no Olympic legacy in terms of the representation of women's sports in media and that, in 2016, at no point the proportion of women's bylines exceeded 3%, the average was 1.8%, with figures barely different to those from 2002, while coverage of women's sports has remained consistent at around 4% of the total coverage; understands that Dr O'Neill presented her findings at a Gender Equal Media Scotland conference, which also highlighted the under-representation of young women, BME women, trans women and disabled women, and considers that media organisations' attitude to women must evolve, so that women are encouraged to enter a profession in which they will be valued, promoted, reported on, and paid on an equal basis with male colleagues.

S5M-13012 Michelle Ballantyne: New Pollinating Trail at Whitmuir Farm—That the Parliament welcomes the opening of a new trail at Whitmuir Farm, which is in the Borders and is designed to teach children why pollinating insects are so important for the food supply; understands that the various displays along the Pollinator Trail, which was funded by Scottish Natural Heritage, were designed in part by pupils at Newlands and West Linton primary schools and Beeslack Community High School during educational workshops run by the Whitmuir Community Benefit Society at Whitmuir Farm; recognises that the trail is multi-sensory with the installations including audio files and insect-specific flowering plants at each display, and wishes everyone involved the best success with the project as part of the Scottish Natural Heritage strategy, which aims to ensure pollinating insects can thrive in Scotland.

S5M-13010 Michelle Ballantyne: Peebles High School, First School in the Borders to be Awarded Silver LGBT Charter Mark—That the Parliament congratulates Peebles High School on becoming the first school in the Borders to be awarded the Silver LGBT Charter Mark; understands that the LGBT Charter of Rights is a list of rights, based on the United Nations Convention on the rights of the child (UNCRC) and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR), that some LGBT people feel they are denied due to their sexual orientation or gender identity; recognises that the LGBT Charter was created by a group of LGBT young people and wider stakeholders and describes basic rights, such as the right to be yourself, the right to privacy, be kept safe from harm and the right to an education; notes that the school collected the award for its values of diversity and promoting good practice in terms of LGBT equality; understands that young people have been at the heart of the work done to challenge discrimination and welcome diversity, firstly by setting up the SAGA (Sexuality and Gender Acceptance) peer support group and then by working alongside staff champions to gather evidence of best practice, and commends everyone involved with the inclusion projects.

S5M-13008 Kenneth Gibson: Celebrating the Works of Sir John James Burnet—That the Parliament recognises that 2 July 2018 marks the 90th anniversary of the death of Sir John James Burnet, renowned Scottish Edwardian architect and one of the most influential forces in the British Modern design school of the 20th century; understands that, after being educated in Glasgow and training for two years in the architectural offices of his father, John Burnet, John James Burnet attended the École des Beaux-Arts in Paris and learned from the architectural masters of Europe; notes that in 1878 Burnet won the competition to build the Fine Art Institute in Glasgow, his first truly independent work, which marked his progression to other major works, including the Edward VII Galleries at the British Museum in London, the Athenaeum and Alhambra theatres in Glasgow, RW Forsyth's department store in Edinburgh and Unilever House in London; believes that the style of architecture developed by Burnet, termed "Burnet Baroque", was influential in the work of other notable Scottish architects such as Thomas Smith Tait, who went on to become a partner in Burnet's firm and is celebrated today as the designer of St. Andrew's House in Edinburgh and the pylons for the Sydney Harbour Bridge, and hopes that Sir John James Burnet is celebrated for years to come as part of Scotland's world-renowned architectural legacy.

S5M-13004 Monica Lennon: Whitehill Incinerator Rejected by South Lanarkshire

Council—That the Parliament notes the decision of the South Lanarkshire Council Planning Committee to reject the application for an incinerator at Whitehill in Hamilton; congratulates all the community groups involved in campaigning against the proposal, including Hamilton Energy Recovery Action Group, Bothwell Community Council, Whitehill Neighbourhood Management Board, Blantyre Community Council, Uddingston Community Council, Cambuslang Community Council and Halfway Community Council; acknowledges that this is the second time that an application for an incinerator at the proposed site on Whistleberry Road has been rejected by South Lanarkshire Council, after the initial rejection in 2013 was overturned on appeal by the Scottish Government; calls on the developer to recognise the wishes of the local community and accept this rejection as final; believes that the campaign against the incinerator at Whitehill exemplifies the imbalance of power between communities and developers in the planning process; agrees that communities should be given a stronger voice in the planning process, and that the appeals system must be rebalanced to equalise the balance of power between communities and developers; considers that the Planning (Scotland) Bill in its current form does nothing to address this imbalance of power between developers and communities, and accepts calls to amend the Bill to reform the appeals system and curb the rights of developers to make repeat applications until they get the decision that they want.

Progress of Legislation

Bills

A list of all Bills in progress can be accessed via the Scottish Parliament website at:

<http://www.scottish.parliament.uk/parliamentarybusiness/Bills/576.aspx>

For each Bill, the date of the next (or most recent) event in the Bill's passage is given. Other relevant information, e.g. about lodging amendments, is given in italics.

As soon as a Public Bill (i.e. a Government, Committee or Member's Bill) has completed Stage 1, amendments for consideration at Stage 2 may be lodged; and as soon as Stage 2 is completed, amendments for Stage 3 consideration may be lodged. The last lodging day for amendments at Stage 2 is four sitting days before the meeting at which those amendments will be considered (e.g. Wednesday for a meeting on Tuesday); at Stage 3 it is five days before. Amendments may be lodged until 4.30 pm on any sitting day, except on the last lodging day for each Stage, when the deadline is 12 noon.

A Hybrid Bill is subject to the same rules except in the case of Stage 2 where amendments for consideration may be lodged no earlier than the completion of any consideration of evidence at Stage 2.

Amendments to Private Bills are subject to different deadlines. These are set out in Rule 9A.12 of Standing Orders.

Members are advised to lodge amendments in good time before the beginning of a Stage and as early as possible during the day.

(G) = Government Bill; (M) = Member's Bill; (C) = Committee Bill; (P) = Private Bill; (H) = Hybrid Bill.
